1. Three former German launching ramps for guided projectiles are located on the strip of land between the Leba-See and the Baltic coast. They are built of concrete and have suffered little damage beyond the removal of a few iron girders. At the beginning of July 1948 these ramps were inspected by a Polish engineer commission, which reported on the damage. [redacted] it was intended to restore the ramps, but up to the end of July there were no signs of any work. The ramps are not camouflaged and can be seen from the air. 50X1-HUM
2. A radio direction finder has been installed at the large airfield at Wrzeszcz (Langfuhr, near Gdansk).
